New Master's in Special Education Program

http://www.brynathyn.edu/academics/swedenborg-library

We are excited to feature the new Master of Science degree in Special Education with a literacy concentration! Bryn Athyn College started this new graduate degree program this summer with two special, intensive sessions which included courses on Special Education topics around spiritual perspectives, family and community. There are ten students currently enrolled, with in-person and synchronous virtual access available to them.

Our faculty is excited to get this program rolling. They are delighted to be working with an outstanding group of educators who are eager to hone their skills to meet the needs of all students, and those with learning differences in particular.

In collaboration with the Education Department faculty, the library has been expanding our collection of print and online materials specifically chosen to support this program. Most notably, in June we added EBSCO's "Education Full-Text." This electronic collection includes indexed, abstracted, and expertselected articles from over 1,000 journals in education and related fields.

Additionally, all Bryn Athyn College and ANCSS students are able to access the library's entire electronic resources collection either on-campus or remotely through OCLC's EZProxy service simply by signing into their network account.

Dr. Kelly Ballard, BAC's Education Department head, with over 13 years experience in teaching, has focused on literacy and special education throughout her career. She spearheaded the effort for our new MS. Ed. program accreditation by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and is very excited to get down to the business of working with teachers and students!

We are delighted to have this opportunity to partner with the Education Department in strengthening and increasing our ability to prepare students to serve in education fields.

Swedenborgiana

Last May 2nd, members of the Glencairn Board were invited to have a private tour and exhibit of Swedenborgiana and the New Church collections. That evening, my presentation was one of several given to the Glencairn Foundation members at their spring meeting.

Some of the items on display included Swedenborg's own copy of True Christian Religion, his personal copy of the second volume of Conjugial Love, many books representing his own library, and books from the 18th century that he mentioned or quoted. The Board was also given a tour of the climatecontrolled vaults which house our extensive New Church materials. Also on display were items from the Academy Archives, including an official U.S. flag of blue and gold stars honoring the Bryn Athyn families with military service and losses in the First World War. In addition to my presentation, Gregory Jackson and Marvin Clymer also presented information on the Archives and Digital Collections. We were happy to answer questions about the collections, and about the scholarly research that has been conducted using these materials.

We were thrilled recently to receive notice that our request for funds toward an endowment was awarded and the amount increased to $150,000. This fund will be used as seed money for an endowment to support the Department of Swedenborgiana and New Church Collections, currently funded by grants and a shared endowed position for the Academy Archivist. Grant funding alone is not reliable to insure the maintenance, development, digitization, and staffing of these collections which are the primary repository for New Church thought and history. If you are interested in supporting this effort, go here to donate online: https://brynathyn.edu/ swedenborg-library/ swedenborg-library/

Due to budgetary reasons my hours have been reduced to one morning a week. You can reach me on Tuesday mornings from 8 am to 11 am or by appointment. (267)502-2547, carroll.odhner@brynathyn.e du, cell (267) 471-9161

Coming soon - exciting news of another grant award!

Art Exhibit: Jency Latta

Jency Latta has found time to explore art in one form or another since the age of two. As a decorative artist, she's been painting murals and furniture for the last 25 years, for private homes as well as for a yoga studio, a movie set, a restaurant, and more recently, a bowling alley! In the last ten years she's done children's book illustration for other authors, in addition to having written and illustrated a few books of her own. She says her ultimate goal would be to create an animated film in collaboration with her singer/songwriter daughter. We are also pleased during her exhibit to show off the new lighting in the gallery, funded by the Friends of the Swedenborg Library.

Please join us on Sunday, Sept. 8, 2019 at 4pm for our art opening and a talk by the artist.

Faculty and Staff Recommend:

If you're looking for great books for fall, we have a few to recommend!

Where the Crawdads Sing by Delia Owens (Janet Lockard, Circulation Manager) is a coming of age story of resiliency, survival, love, loneliness, desperation, and strength. Kya, called Marsh Girl has survived for vears alone in the North Carolina coast marsh abandoned by her parents, siblings, school system, the entire town. This book is a celebration of all life, human and mother earth alike.

Turtles All the Way Down by John Green (Gwynne B. Haladay, Library Interlibrary Loan Supervisor). A fascinating, heartfelt, and deep look into the mind of someone with Obsessive Compulsive Disorder. Although the story is fictional, it is written by someone who suffers from this mental illness, so it is an authentic and enlightening depiction.

The Warmth of Other Suns by Isabel Wilkerson (Caira Bongers, Assistant Professor of Mathematics.) The history of the migration of African Americans from the deep south to the northern and midwestern parts of the country had a significant impact on America. These individual stories, as representative of the larger issues, are simultaneously endearing and gut wrenching.

Outlander by Diana Gabaldon (Maria Sumoza, Institutional Research Coordinator.) Outlander is the first in a series of eight historical multi-genre novels. Claire Randall travels through time to 18th century Scotland and finds adventure and romance with the dashing Jamie Fraser. All the action -nonstop. She doesn't get a break!

New Faces in the Library!

Amanda Miller joined us this past April, working part-time, evenings, at the front desk. She is our Access and User Services Assistant and is helping us improve access to online journals and New Church collections, in addition to helping students and patrons. She is happy to be working with the team. She says, "It sparks joy every time you are able to help a student succeed!"

Emily Smith joined us in March of 2019 as a volunteer. She previously worked in the General Church offices for over 30 years . She enjoys spending time with our hard-working students. She says she was drawn to our beautiful library by the friendliness of the staff.

We love having both Emily and Amanda working with us! If you see them, be sure to stop and say hello!

Personal Librarian Program

A new student does not always feel comfortable asking or think it obvious where to go for help. To point students in the right direction, we are pleased to tell you about our pilot Personal Librarian Program launching this academic year. The purpose of this program is to help raise awareness of our services and resources available from the Library, and to increase individualized support. We are commencing by matching incoming freshmen with a member of the Library staff. The individual student's Personal Librarian serves as the student's guide to, and front line of contact with the Library.

Personal Librarians will help students:

- Navigate the academic library environment
- Get started with using research tools
- Connect with the right person for help
- Learn about new library resources, services, and events
