There's an app for that— access the Library through BookMyne™

Soon it will be easier for you to find library materials on-the-go with BookMyne—a smartphone application made available by SirsiDynix. The Swedenborg Library, whose online catalog is managed via the SirsiDynix Symphony platform, has just added BookMyne to its Web Services. BookMyne is compatible with Android, iPhone or iTouch devices. It allows users to locate the nearest participating library on GPS-enabled maps, and search that library's collections. You can also place holds on materials and perform similar transactions in libraries where you have an account.

BookMyne is available as a free download from the Apple App Store or Android Market. It supports English, German, French and Spanish, and has a number of features that include: barcode scanning capabilities using the camera function on your iPhone or Android; a social recommendation engine powered through Goodreads that lets you read reviews, browse friend-recommended booklists and check your library instantly for availability; and access to the New York Times bestseller lists. By creating custom 'shelves' BookMyne users can manage their current reading and plan future reading adventures.

Greetings from St. Nicholas

To celebrate the season through the magic and joys of childhood, we are pleased to display a few numbers of the beloved children's magazine St. Nicholas. Featuring work from some of the best writers and artists of the day, these volumes are just a sampling of the treasures housed in the Library's special collections.

Take a few minutes out of your busy holiday schedule to stop into the Library and be transported back to the Christmases of yesterday.

Over 100 million items are borrowed by users from all over the world.

Discover one of the world’s largest libraries, The British Library at <http://www.bl.uk>.

The British Library contains over 150 million books, manuscripts and other items published in the United Kingdom with 3 million items added every year. Its online collections include eBook treasures, digitized British newspapers, manuscripts and more. The Online Gallery allows you to get a close up look and turn the pages on many rare documents, texts, and musical scores. Would you like to see the draft score of Handel’s Messiah? Or you could peruse the Lindisfarne Gospels (an outstanding example of Anglo-Saxon art); Blake’s Notebooks, Jane Austen’s “History of England” in her own hand, etc.

Those with iPads can download eBooks from the library’s eBook Treasures or select images and texts from the collections and create your own gallery. In the “My Gallery” space, you can create, edit and save up to 50 items and create up to 10 personal galleries.

Want to search their collections? The main catalog leads you easily into the entire holdings with simple key word searching. Find something you want? You are not alone. Over 100 million items are borrowed by users from all over the world. You can also use the library’s document delivery service; or if you are traveling to Great Britain, you can plan a visit. Readers’ passes can be obtained online.

The Swedenborg Library owns a reprint version of the Gutenberg Bible, donated by Lynn Hyatt. I found amazing virtual views of the Gutenberg Bible in the online collections which included information about it. The British Library’s web site states: “Explore the World’s Knowledge”. Anyone using this outstanding site will find a world of knowledge that is easily accessible.

Friends of the Swedenborg Library Annual Meeting

The next annual meeting of FOSL will be held at 4pm on Tuesday, February 7, 2012 in the AV room of the library.

After the conclusion of regular business, Gregory L. Baker, professor emeritus of Bryn Athyn College will give a talk: "To and Fro: a new book about the Pendulum" in which he presents a brief overview of his 2011 book Seven Tales of the Pendulum, [QA862.P4 B354 2011] from Oxford University Press.

In this semi-popular work, Dr. Baker describes some of the fascinating connections of the humble pendulum with science, history, literature, science, technology, and religion. The presentation will include images and very brief excerpts from the book. Audience members are encouraged to ask questions about the book and the publication process. All are welcome!

Digital Collections update

Hidden away in the library's Swedenborgiana vault is an amazing collection of letters and documents which were actually signed by Emanuel Swedenborg over 250 years ago. A few were also written by him. Dated from 1726 – 1756, these documents present an intriguing view of Swedenborg's activities as an official on Sweden's Board of Mines.

However, the contents of some of these documents had never been recorded. A grant was recently received from the Carpenter Fellowship Fund to translate eight documents, including 29 pages of material, and Rev. Dr. Erik E. Sandstrom, our Swedenborgiana Curator, agreed to take on the project. As expected, the greatest challenge was to decipher the original handwriting and produce Swedish transcripts of the text. Then came the task of translating the formal, 18th century Swedish into modern English. The tedious process has been completed and we now possess English translations for all the remaining documents signed by Swedenborg in this collection.

Images of these documents with their new translations can now be found in the Swedenborg Library Digital Collections at www.swedenborglibrary.org/digital (Select: Swedenborgiana> Swedenborg Documents> Swedenborg Letters and Documents> Recently Translated Documents).
